Beethoven's childhood was difficult. His father was an alcoholic, and he often beat Beethoven and his siblings. Beethoven's mother died when he was 17, and his father died two years later. Beethoven was left to care for his two younger brothers, and he struggled to make ends meet.

Despite the challenges he faced, Beethoven began to show his musical talent at an early age. He started taking piano lessons from his father when he was four years old, and he quickly became a skilled pianist.

In 1787, Beethoven traveled to Vienna to study with Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart. However, Mozart was not impressed with Beethoven's playing, and he told him to go back to Bonn and study with Haydn.
