Synopsis

It's Monday morning, and Mrs. Jolly Bones is ready to start the week with a bang! But when her alarm clock goes off, she realizes that her bones are feeling a little... funny. She's stiff, she's creaky, and she's not sure she can make it through the day.

But Mrs. Jolly Bones is a determined skeleton, and she's not about to let a little thing like achy bones get in her way. She gets dressed, grabs her coffee, and heads off to school.

On her way to school, Mrs. Jolly Bones meets all sorts of interesting characters, including a friendly ghost, a talkative pumpkin, and a mischievous spider. Each character has their own unique story to tell, and Mrs. Jolly Bones is happy to listen.

When Mrs. Jolly Bones finally arrives at school, she's greeted by her students. They're all excited to see her, and they're ready to learn. Mrs. Jolly Bones teaches her students all about the human body, and she even leads them in a fun dance party.

As the day goes on, Mrs. Jolly Bones starts to feel better. Her bones are still a little stiff, but she's not letting that stop her from having a good time.

She plays with her students, she reads them stories, and she even helps them with their homework.

By the end of the day, Mrs. Jolly Bones is exhausted, but she's also happy. She's made it through her first Monday as a skeleton teacher, and she's learned that even on the toughest days, there's always something to be happy about.
