A Fusion of Tradition and Innovation

At the heart of Altered Art 30 lies a profound respect for the foundations of painting, with Saunders deftly employing time-honored techniques to establish a solid base for his transformative creations. However, it is his fearless experimentation with unconventional materials that truly sets this collection apart.

From the incorporation of found objects to the use of textiles, collage, and mixed media, Saunders pushes the boundaries of artistic expression. His works invite viewers to engage with art on a tactile level, blurring the lines between painting and sculpture, and challenging conventional notions of what constitutes a finished piece.

Exploration and Discovery

Altered Art 30 is more than just a collection of visually stunning works; it is an invitation to explore the unknown and discover the potential that lies within unconventional materials. Saunders's approach encourages a playful and experimental mindset, where the unexpected becomes the catalyst for artistic growth.

Through his transformative creations, Saunders invites viewers to question the very nature of art. By juxtaposing traditional and nontraditional elements, he challenges the boundaries between high and low art, and opens up new possibilities for artistic expression.
